Asset allocation and diversification strategies do not protect against market risk or loss of principal. Neither do these strategies assure a profit nor do they protect against losses in declining markets. Investments in managed portfolios have additional management fees and expose the investor to the risks inherent within the portfolio and the specific risks of the underlying funds directly proportionate to their fund allocation. Investing involves risk, including the loss of principal. Investment returns, particularly over shorter time periods, are highly dependent on trends in the various investment markets. Investors should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the underlying funds that make up the managed portfolios carefully before investing. Information regarding the underlying funds held in client accounts is outlined in the investment's prospectus which should be read carefully to fully understand the total amount of fees being paid and other risks. EMA does not receive any of the fees charged by the underlying funds. Further information on the fees received by EMA is outlined in our Form ADV Part 2A Disclosure Brochure which can be found at <https://www.adviserinfo.sec.gov>.

All ETFs are subject to risk, including possible loss of principal. ETF entail risks similar to direct stock ownership, including market, sector or industry risks. Additional risks include supply and demand, tracking error and excessive trading. Since an ETF's share price is determined by market supply and demand forces, investors may purchase shares at a premium or discount to their net asset value. Investments in common equity ETFs are subject to systematic risk of a declining economy, any industry specific risk, and have a low priority in terms of recovery of assets in the event of a company's liquidation. Fixed income ETFs are subject to credit risk and interest rate risk, and their value will normally decline as interest rates rise. ETFs are not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. Investments in ETFs are not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or any other government agency. Although money market funds seek to preserve their value at $1.00 per share, it is possible to lose money by investing in the money market funds.
